'Musashino' Zelkova (Zelkova serrata)

Origin: Species native to Japan, Korea, and Manchuria

Mature Size: Large (>45' Tall)

Description: Zelkova is a medium to fast-growing tree with mature size and shape somewhat similar to elm. It has no serious pest or disease problems, and is tolerant to a wide range of environmental conditions. It is relatively drought-tolerant once established. 'Musashino' zelkova has a narrow, vase-shaped growth form suitable for restricted planting spaces. Fall color is generally yellow to yellow orange.
